Opening Keynote Speaker: Andy Masters

Facilitator: Winnie Anderson

Summary: Certainly, the job of an educator is to educate -- not to entertain. However, we can't educate, nor impact the lives of students, if we can't keep attention and engage students first. Join author, speaker, and humorist Andy Masters as he shares with us easily applicable methods to sprinkle wit with our wisdom - -even if you don't believe you're that funny!

Andy also shares specific research from numerous studies which prove occasional humor in the classroom improves student retention, interest in the subject, faculty ratings, and even class attendance. So, have FUN, be creative, and impact the lives of students — while refreshing your own outlook towards your career each day.
