CTE in Maryland

workers are available for every 100 open jobs in Maryland. Career and technical education (CTE) programs can prepare students to address this shortage, particularly in key Maryland industries, such as:

- military, federal and defense
- tourism
- cleantech and renewable energy
- distribution, warehouse and logistics

In 2022, Maryland high school CTE concentrators attained almost 4,400 industry-recognized credentials through the state's Technical Skills Assessment system.

Many students are already enrolled in CTE in Maryland, developing technical, academic and employability skills and engaging in work-based experiences with industry partners. During the 2022-23 school year, Maryland had:

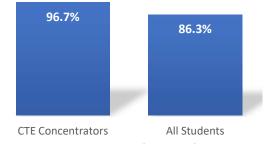

133,071

secondary CTE participants

43,806

postsecondary CTE participants

These youth and adult learners in CTE programs are more engaged, graduate high school at higher rates, earn industry-recognized credentials, and have rewarding and family-sustaining careers.
